PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

By John J. McTighe

This is my last President's Message. After four years as RESDC President, I will be handing over the gavel and the mantle of responsibility into the very capable hands of Stan Coombs at our Holiday Luncheon on December 12th. In a way, it is very fitting that Stan take over this role from me. After all, it was as a result of Stan's urging over the years that I originally joined the RESDC Board of Directors. Stan has been a very active member of the Board for many years and has served as the First Vice President and chairman of the Benefits Committee for quite a few years. He will hit the ground running and will have the strong support of our entire Board, Executive Director Mark Nanzer, and staff in leading RESDC into the future.

I want to thank all of the RESDC Board members and staff with whom I have served for helping make RESDC the first-class membership organization it is today. I can say when I look up and down the state at similar organizations, we have the best organization of its type. Membership service and advocacy are at the forefront of everything the Board and staff do. Communication to our members is clear, constant, and relevant. Activities are varied and exciting. We have led the way in networking with other like-minded organizations in our region to get the word out about the benefits of defined-benefit retirement, and we have been at the ready to answer vocal critics who are trying to tear down public retirement systems.

All of this hasn't just happened -- it has been planned and prepared for over many years with many individuals contributing to the effort. The adoption and annual revision of a RESDC Strategic Plan started over six years ago under the leadership of then-president Susan Mallett and our first Executive Director Denise Price. That was followed by the formulation and adoption of the RESDC Advocacy Plan in August 2016. That Advocacy Plan has guided much of how I spent my time as President along with our Executive Director Mark Nanzer in dialoguing with state and local elected representatives and County and Board of Retirement staff and representatives.

A major highlight of my time as President was hosting the 2019 Spring California Retired County Employees Association (CRCEA) Conference in April at the DoubleTree Hotel. A lot of hard work and planning went into making this conference a rousing success. I was pleased on behalf of RESDC to receive very positive feedback from attendees from the other 19 associations.

In preparing to write this last column, I read back through the past 47 issues of The NETWORK to see if I could make any sense out of what I've written about during my tenure as President. Many of my columns covered issues and activities RESDC was dealing with at the time.

WHO BUYING WHOM?

By Stan Coombs, Director

We've all paused at some point, when we heard that a company that provided important services - a major utility, a large pharmaceutical producer, a grocery chain - has been purchased by a larger firm providing the same services, and wondered if it meant higher prices for all of us due to decreased competition.

Some of us remember "Ma Bell," the telephone giant that was broken up by the courts. An antitrust lawsuit was filed by the Department of Justice against AT&T, the sole provider of telephone services for most of the United States and some of Canada, and indirectly the provider of most telephone equipment on the continent, giving them almost total control of U.S. communications.

During litigation, AT&T proposed they be broken up, and operating rights were eventually distributed to seven "Baby Bells" plus two subsidiaries that were only partially owned by AT&T. The settlement was finalized in 1982.

That breakup resulted in increased competition, one could argue. Long distance rates fell. Local residential rates, previously subsidized by long distance revenues, rose. The seven-plus-two Baby Bells eventually lapsed into inter-company competition, and at least one reconsolidation.

So, why is this of interest to retirees? Because it's a lesson in waiting about monopolistic practices decades ago that may provide options for today.

Ever heard of Sutter Health? I hadn't, but this is Southern California and Sutter is a health giant in Northern California. Sutter started as a medical service in Sutter's Fort in the 1860's (and thus the name), and is now a non-profit chain with 24 hospitals, 34 surgery centers, 5,000 physicians, and operating revenues of nearly $13 billion. It serves more than 100 California cities and towns.

Sutter became large by aggressively buying hospitals and physician's practices. One of those added in 1995, California Healthcare Systems, owned the four largest private hospitals in the San Francisco Bay area. The two systems were described as having assets of more than $2.1 billion and serving more than a million patients.

Sutter was sued in 2014 by 1,500 self-funded health insurance plans, according to reports, accusing them of anticompetitive behavior and charging inflated prices. And California Attorney General Xavier Becerra followed with a separate antitrust case last spring.

Becerra alleged Sutter used their market power to control prices by keeping health insurers from providing low-cost health plans from patients, and setting excessively high out-of-network prices. He argued that Sutter impeded cost transparency by restricting publication of provider cost information, and mentioned that Sutter's assets had increased from $6.4 billion in 2005 to $15.6 billion in 2016. The two cases have been joined, plaintiffs requesting damages of $900 million.

Sutter denied it engaged in such behavior, and said the suits aren't about prices, but insurance companies trying to maximize profits, and reportedly called the Attorney General's allegations, "a sweeping and unprecedented effort to intrude into private contracting."

Sutter's alleged abuse of their market power is described by some observers as including an "all-or-nothing approach." An insurer wishing to include any single Sutter hospital or clinic in its network allegedly had to include all Sutter hospitals and clinics, even though it would be cheaper to exclude their more expensive facilities.

Sutter claimed the "all-or-nothing" practices actually protect patients, who, when unable to choose their hospitals in an emergency situation could be vulnerable to surprise billings from out-of-network hospitals or doctors.

Even the consolidation issue is debated. Proponents claim medical consolidations reduce costs by providing economies of scale, allowing better deals with insurance companies, doctors and medical suppliers. But a 2018 study by the University of California at Berkeley seems to refute that, reporting health care costs in Northern California, Sutter's home turf, 20% to 30% higher than in Southern California.

At least one study indicates quality of care decreases with increased consolidation, reporting that a decrease of 10 percentage points in hospital market concentration resulted in a 3% decrease in 30-day mortality for heart attacks. According to the author, "When prices are set by government, hospitals don't compete on price; they compete on quality."

It's rare for large suits to go to trial due to laws allowing triple damages, and on October 16th a tentative settlement was announced in the Sutter case. No details were revealed. And the court may not approve the proposed agreement during approval hearings next year, but the outcome could provide a deterrent to the national hospital industry, if the State of California wins.

This is not an only case. There has been a surge of consolidations. The American Hospital Association reports 800 mergers involving 1,870 hospitals, between 2007 and 2017. In an interview, one law professor specializing in hospital consolidations is quoted, "To date there's very little evidence - I venture to say none - that the mergers over the past 20 years have generated any efficiencies."

He concluded, "Reducing competition increases price." □

Volunteer Community Service Is Routine For RESDC Board Members

The 13 retirees serving on the RESDC Board of Directors are volunteers, and several of them donate their time and abilities to other community service organizations and non-profits. Here are some examples:

President John McTighe served on the East County YMCA Board of Management for 25 years and was a Board Member of the El Cajon Community Development Corporation from 2007-2011. He also volunteered teaching English to Syrian and Iraqi refugees in 2017 and 2018.

First Vice President Stan Coombs served on the San Diego Mayor's Growth Management Task Force and served as a member and then President of Navajo Community Planners. He also served on the San Diego City Central Planning Committee.

Second Vice President Chris Heiserman served on the Board of Directors of the Spring Valley and San Miguel Fire Districts for 18 years. He has been a member of the Spring Valley Kiwanis Club for 30+ years and has coordinated the club's annual Safety Officer Appreciation Dinner for 20 years. This dinner recognizes the service of local Sheriff Deputies, firefighters, and Senior Volunteer Patrol members of both the Sheriff Department and California Highway Patrol. He is also President of the Dictionary Hill Open Space Advocates (DHOSA), which celebrated the acquisition of Dictionary Hill by the County of San Diego in 2017, conserving 175 acres of Coastal Sage Scrub Habitat for everyone to enjoy in perpetuity.

Secretary Carlos Gonzalez served three terms on the SDCERA Board of Retirement (1992-2003). He is on the Executive Committee of the California Retired County Employees Association (CRCEA), a statewide organization of retiree groups like RESDC in the 20 California counties constituted under the 1937 Retirement Act. Carlos is CRCEA's Treasurer.

Director Leila Attar is a long-time Board Member of CRASH, Inc., a non-profit agency providing substance abuse services in San Diego. She also consistently supports environmental and animal rights causes.

Director Chuck Brown is a founding member and current President of the San Diego Concert Band, which has been performing several community concerts annually for 30 years.

Director Charles Morgan and his family are very involved in animal welfare and rescue efforts, and have founded and direct a beagle club that rescues and fosters beagles.

Director Merrill Roach has served on the non-profit religious-based Board of Directors of Newbreak Church since 1986.

Director Carl Silva served as a Board member of the Jamul-Dulzura Union School District and has volunteered for several organizations.

Director George Shoemaker, a RESDC member for more than 30 years, is a past RESDC President and also served as an alternate member on the SDCERA Board of Retirement. He was a past President of the California Retired County Employees Association (CRCEA) and chairs its Retirement Security Committee. He was the Treasurer and a Board Member of San Diego Safe Harbor, Inc., a transitional housing program for the homeless that achieved an 87% success rate for 20 years.

New Director Bruce Silva volunteers at the Vista County Library and participates in the County Sheriff Department's Senior Volunteer Patrol program.

Military Service

Several RESDC Board Members have also served in the armed forces. RESDC Treasurer Frank Bittner retired from the U.S. Navy as a Lieutenant after serving nearly 30 years before joining the County of San Diego. Carlos Gonzalez served his country in the U.S. Marine Corps, retiring as a Gunnery Sergeant.

Chris Heiserman and Carl Silva both served four years in the U.S. Air Force. John McTighe served in the Army National Guard for six years, ending with the rank of Staff Sergeant. George Shoemaker joined the U.S. Navy in 1948, attended The Navy School of Music in Washington, D.C. and was a member of President Harry Truman's Inaugural Band.

Volunteer service comes naturally to RESDC Board Members. Perhaps there's a link back to our County careers where helping and serving people was more than just a job. Brief biographies of all our Board Members can be viewed on the RESDC website (<https://www.resdc.net/>). If anyone is interested in getting more involved with RESDC, we have volunteer opportunities on committees and we have Ambassadors who help us with events. □

However, there did seem to be a few themes that were repeated during the four years. Probably the biggest underlying theme was that of "preparation." In May and June 2016, I shared from my personal journey about preparing to age in place in my home. This had to do with preparing for getting older and making the decision and preparations to get our house ready to live out the rest of our lives there. Then, in July & August 2017, and again in January 2019, I wrote about the importance of preparation for things going wrong when you are traveling. In one instance, a member was able to recoup her cancelled trip cost because she had purchased travel insurance that covered her loss. In other cases, two of our Board members were able to have expenses related to adverse medical conditions fully covered because of their proper preparation in purchasing insurance prior to their trips. In August 2018 I wrote about the importance of personal disaster planning, particularly having a plan if you must evacuate your home during a disaster.

I also wrote about Alzheimer's Disease and Related Dementia on a number of occasions (June & July 2018, June & September 2019). This falls under preparation to the extent that the older we are, the more likely it is that we, or someone close to us, will suffer from some form of dementia. That being the case, it's important to know what to look for and be prepared to deal with the consequences.

Being prepared to avoid senior scams and other fraudulent activity was a recurring theme. In my column in April 2018 I reported on the District Attorney's efforts along with other agencies in San Diego to combat elder abuse. I shared tips to help avoid being a victim of elder abuse provided by the National Committee for the Prevention of Elder Abuse. Last month, I shared with you an update on some of the scams that are being targeted against the elderly.

I was happy to share some travel tips with you that I gleaned from trips to Costa Rica and France which I was able to do during the time I was President. Hopefully, these tips have come in handy for some of you.

It has been a pleasure serving RESDC as President, but it is time to move on. I look forward with excitement to the next stages in RESDC's and my personal journeys. I'm not going anywhere, and I plan to stay active as the Immediate Past President. □

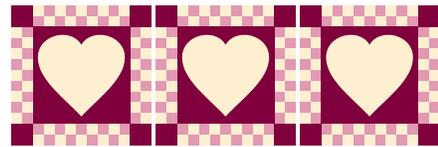

Thank you John!

RECENT EVENTS

❖ New Research Brief: Why Are 401(k)/IRA Balances Substantially Below Potential? The center for Retirement Research at Boston College recently released a research brief with the following key findings:

- 401(k)s/IRAs have the potential to provide significant wealth.
- But a typical 60-year-old with a 401(k) in 2016 had less than $100,000 compared to a potential $360,000 in combined 401(k)/IRA assets.
- Four factors could explain this gap: the immaturity of the 401(k) system, the lack of universal coverage, leakages, and fees.

To access the research visit: <https://crr.bc.edu/>.

❖ County Board Approves Four Satellite Voting Locations. The County Board of Supervisors recently approved funding for four satellite voting locations for the March 2020 Primary Election. Traditional polling places will remain in place, but the satellite voting locations will act as offshoots of the Registrar's office. They will open three days before Election Day and will be staffed by Registrar employees.

The move came after the recent passage of state Senate Bill 72, which requires the Registrar to allow conditional voter registration at every polling place starting with the March 3rd election. That means anyone who wants to register to vote, re-register to vote after an address change, or change their party preference to vote for a presidential candidate, can do so on Election Day. During the last election, conditional voter registration was allowed only at the Registrar's office, creating long waits for people. □
